

WEATHER FORECAST - EUROS 2020 UYCA

Issue: SAT, 26.09.2020, 08:30 CEST

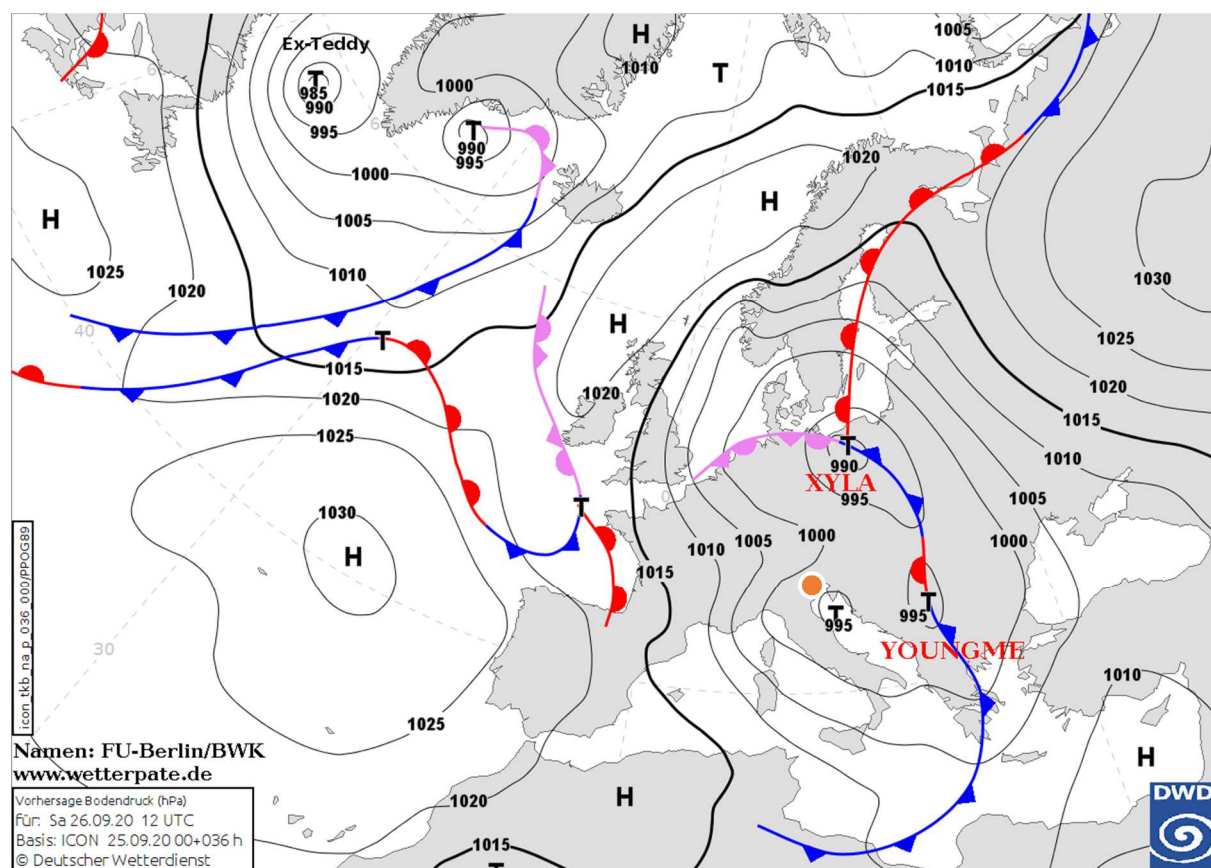

Weather forecast ATTERSEE:

A cold front has passed Upper Austria and a Low over the Adriatic Sea led to extensive precipitation in the Attersee-region last night.

Today in the beginning a lot of clouds and rain showers with moderate to strong westerly winds in the northern parts of the Attersee. In the afternoon some dry moments but it will stay mostly cloudy and overcast, winds continuing from westerly directions with average speeds about 7-12 knots, gusts up to 20 knots.

On Sunday in the beginning foggy and calm, during the day dry and in the afternoon partly sunny. The wind system is very weak, mainly currents from East.

In the beginning of the new week the next front is expected, winds turn again to westerly directions and accelerate, a lot of rain is predicted on Tuesday.
