

WEATHER FORECAST - EUROS 2020 UYCA

Issue: TUE, 29.09.2020, 08:30 CEST

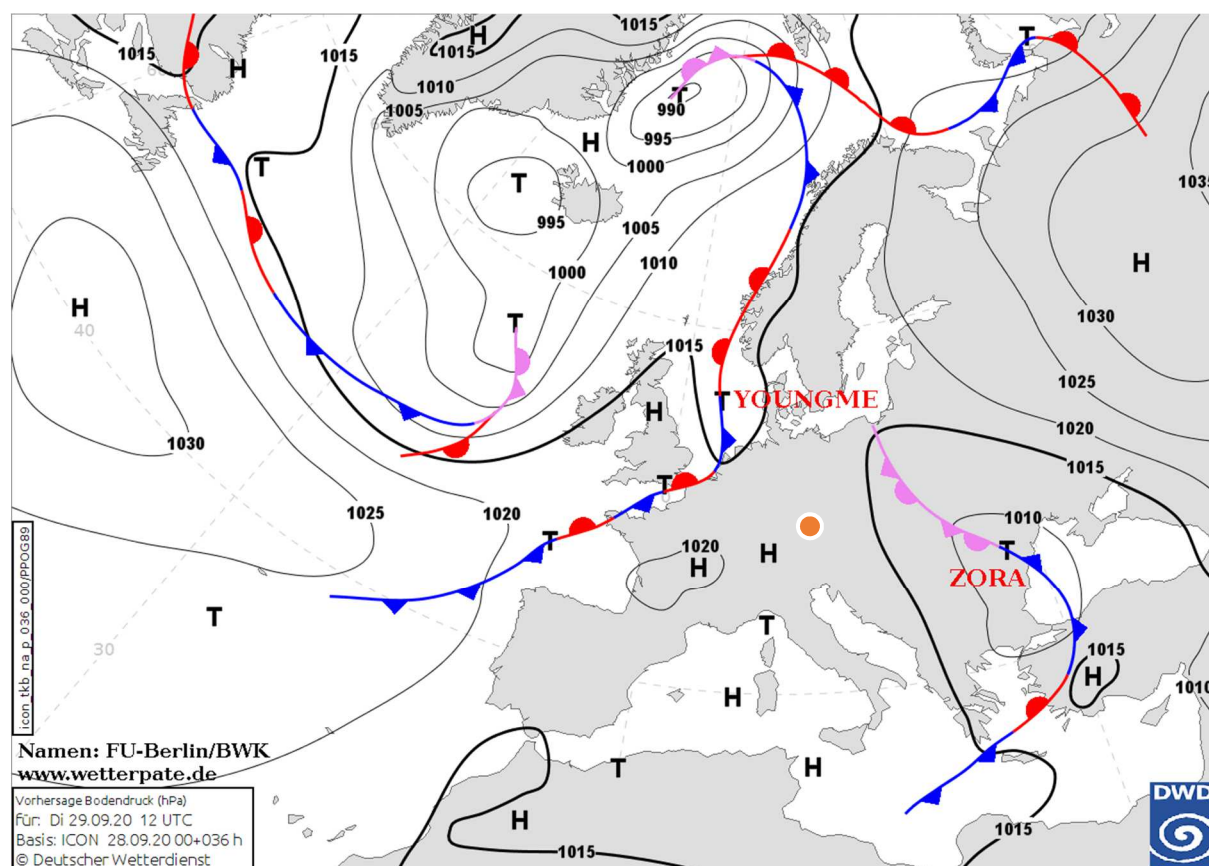

Weather forecast ATTERSEE:

The pressure gradients over Central Europe today are very small. Therefore no significant wind systems can develop.

Until noon it will be dry with some scattered moments, wind currents are temporary calm and weak, mainly from W to SW. In the afternoon more clouds are expected with light rain showers. Before and between the showers westerly winds should accelerate shortly up to 5 to 9 knots.

On Wednesday in the beginning overcast skies, in the afternoon some sunny spells, wind speeds are ongoing weak to moderate from westerly directions.

On Thursday and Friday a strong, foehn weather situation develops. In the beginning it is partly foggy and calm, during the day it will be sunny with rising temperatures. In the afternoon the winds shift to easterly directions in the northern part of the Attersee and accelerates.
